Brenda Heath started her career with a degree in Art Education from Georgia Southern University in 1962. After an accident changed her life she picked up the brush again and continues her art today.

She uses watercolors and oils to express and capture her varied subject matter from landscapes, people, still life, etc. She captures her subjects with abstraction and realism by way of impressionism. Much of her work is left for the viewer's interpretation.

Brenda is born of the Georgia countryside but has traveled extensively. Her art emits mysticism, solitude, simplicity, and wonder of the countryside and exotic scenes from her travels. They invite the viewer to imagine and interpret.

She has exhibited at: The Art Place, Mountain Park, Ga.; Somerby of Alpharetta and The Museum of North Georgia, Blairsville, Ga. and exhibits at The Alpharetta-Fulton Public Library.

She has a gallery on Alpha Arts Guild website and art pieces at Mittie's Café Tea Room, 62 N. Main Street, Alpharetta, Ga., 30009 and The Alpharetta-Fulton Public Library.

She sells her work through Mittie's Cafe and privately at her studio via email: brendaheath11895@gmail.com or by phone: 770-789-0875. Call for an appointment.
